Apedemak, Lion God Of Meroe: A Study In Egyptian-Meroitic Syncretism

Louis V Zabkar

It is not clear whether this god has a falcons head or a rams head, but it seems in any case to be not a human head. 24 L.V. Žabkar, Apedemak, Lion God of Meroe. A Study in Egyptian-Meroitic Syncretism, Warminster, 1975, p. 106-117. The Digital Meroitic Newsletter v1.0 - Contents Listed in Order of knowledge on toponyms and gods related to the Legend on Hathor-Tefnut as well as gods mentioned. Materials concern Egyptian mythology, Meroitic theology has no special evil god. Evil as a notion was 2 L.V. Žabkar, Apedemak, Lion God of Meroe. A Study in Egyptian-Meroitic Syncretism, Warminster 1975, p. 24-25. Apedemak — Wikipedia Republished WIKI 2 Apedemak, Lion god of Meroe: a study in Egyptian-Meroitic syncretism. L. V. Žabkar. Warminster, Eng.: Aris & Phillips, 1975. xiii, 217 pages: illustrations